Adult Hebrew Classes Forming at Congregation Kneseth Israel

February 12, 2015, Elgin, Illinois

Congregation Kneseth Israel is pleased to announce a new Adult Hebrew class is forming. This class will meet every other Sunday morning for eight sessions from 11:00 am -12:00 pm at CKI, 330 Division Street, in Elgin. Classes begin March 1st.

The class is designed to be a "crash course." By the end of the class students will know how to decode Hebrew words that are written in a different alphabet and read from right to left. They will also learn the basic prayers of the Friday night Sabbath service. This is not a conversational or Biblical Hebrew class but will give students the building blocks for either if they wish to continue their studies.

We are delighted to have partnered with the National Jewish Outreach Project which has been engaging people in the study of Hebrew throughout North America. What this grant means is that we are able to offer this class free of charge to CKI members with your RSVP so that we have enough materials for you.

The fee for non-CKI,PJC members is $100.00, and the fee for non-CKI, non-PJC members is $250.00 for the entire series.

The class will be taught by Rabbi Margaret Frisch Klein. Rabbi Klein's Master's thesis was entitled, "Teach them Diligently: The Mechanics of Teaching Hebrew Decoding." Rabbi Klein brings to her rabbinate 20 years of conducting supplementary Hebrew Schools as the principal. She has taught students of all ages, from pre-school through adult learners.

Rabbi Klein states, "When people come into a synagogue, sometimes they are intimidated by the amount of Hebrew we use. Even with transliteration guides they can still feel uncomfortable or lost. This class will help lower those barriers and make people feel more welcome. I am excited about teaching this class and unlocking the doors to the deep meaning that exists in Judaism."
